Jacob and Mandy Palma

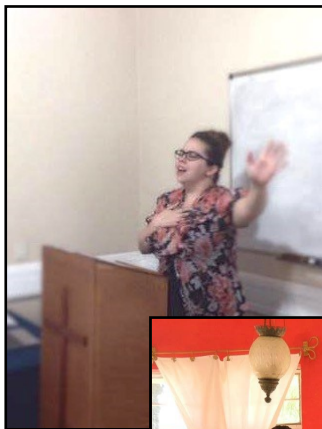

Jacob and Mandy Palma are appointed missionaries to the country of Uruguay, South America.

After graduating from Christian Life College in 2007, the Palmas went to work at their home base church in Merced, California before becoming AIMers in 2009. As a bilingual family, God has opened many doors to minister in both English and Spanish throughout the United States as well as South America.

Upon returning to Uruguay, the Palma family will be located in the city of San José de Mayo. There they will plant the first United Pentecostal Church in the Southwest region of the country. This will open up the gospel to a combined population of nearly one million people.

Through pastoring and working in the Bible college, their focus will be on training workers to plant churches in unreached areas.
