GLOBAL MISSIONS SERVICE

Peter and Robyn Gration were missionaries in Papua New Guinea for five years, where they restarted Bible school training. Later, they moved to Vanuatu to assist the missionaries there. In 2013, Peter became the field Superintendent of the UPCI Vanuatu after the Sherrys retired. He and Robyn have been instrumental in teaching at the GATS certified ACTS II Bible College. As Superintendent, Peter created a Policies and Procedures Manual, a Ministers' Handbook, and updated the national constitution. He also helped to train pastors and leaders across Vanuatu, leading to growth and stronger churches. Three new districts were formed in the North. In addition, he served as field Superintendent for the Solomon Islands and is now the Area Coordinator for the Central Pacific region. In 2023, the Grations expressed their burden to establish Apostolic churches in the Australian state of Tasmania, which had no Apostolic church despite its population of nearly 600,000. They plan to establish churches in Tasmania over the next few years while continuing their work in Vanuatu to help with national expansion.
