GLOBAL MISSIONS SERVICE

Joseph and Cassandra Landaw were initially appointed to serve in the islands of Trinidad and Tobago but were unable to enter Trinidad due to the ban on missionary visas. Instead, the Landaws went to Puerto Rico and worked in the San Juan metro area where they taught at a Bible school and assisted with a new church. They then relocated to the southern side of the island in 2017 to help in the least evangelized areas. During this time, they continued teaching at the Bible schools across the island and oversaw the churches in the South/West. When Hurricane Maria devastated Puerto Rico, the Landaws helped distribute humanitarian aid to those in need. The Landaws planted a bilingual church in Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, and are currently leading the work on that side of the island.
